In common with most websites, Kenworthy's Chambers uses cookies to capture information about how our site is used. Our cookies do not identify you personally.

Cookies are simple text files placed by the server of a website onto your computer and can only be retrieved by that server. It allows a website to remember visitor behaviour.

You can choose how cookies are handled by your device via a setting on your browser. Please check the help menu on your browser to find out how to block cookies, accept all cookies or just be notified when a cookie is issued.

Please bear in mind, if you block or do not accept all cookies, certain websites may not function properly, and you may not be able to access all or parts of the website.

If you register with us or if you continue to use the website, you agree to our use of cookies. Cookies are widely used to make websites work more efficiently, as well as to provide information to the owners of the site.
